Most people know the Enso Center as a wonderful place to practice Martial Arts, Tai Chi, Yoga, Martial Arts Weapons and Archery. But did you know we are also a non-profit?

Our mission is to promote awareness, understanding and harmony - internally, interpersonally, culturally, ecologically and ideologically.

Enso Center encourages the growth of strong sustainable communities through the study of martial arts, nature, languages, literacy, communication and fine arts.

Starting in October 2022, we are introducing changes to the way we manage our memberships.

Membership at Enso Center is a donation that keeps programs running, maintains the use of the facility, pays the staff and covers all the day to day running of our center. Over the years we have shifted emphasis away from a pay for service model to a community support model. We are adopting the term membership and offering several suggested donation tiers. If you would like to follow one of these suggestions or make a custom donation at any time, we are very grateful.

At Enso Center, we provide many services that we are not paid for, without exchange. This is in line with our mission statement and we believe it helps the community. We also ask for people's support through donations, regardless of the classes we are able to provide. We try to function without reciprocity. For this reason, donations to Enso Center are eligible to receive matching funds from employers who offer them. If for any reason you would rather not submit matching funds requests to your employer, you are not required to do so. We are continually impressed with people's genuine effort and generosity. If we need to change to an exchange model, we will let you know.

Even though no one is turned away from classes, we do have to have everyone register. This allows us to have the correct insurance, keep track of each individual's progress and keep everyone updated on what is happening at Enso Center.

So what does this mean? (Please see next page)

It means what used to be called Tuition is now called Membership.

There are 3 main Membership tiers: Oak, Maple & Bamboo.

- If you wanted to study Hapkido, Martial Arts Weapons, Tai Chi and Yoga, you might choose an Oak Membership.
- If you just wanted to study Hapkido (the core martial art taught at Enso Center) you might choose a Maple Membership.
- If you only wanted to study one of Tai Chi, Martial Arts Weapons or Yoga you might choose a Bamboo Membership.
- If you want to donate a custom amount (more or less than what is suggested) you can choose a Custom Membership. Email us at contact@ensocenter.org if you are interested in a custom membership.
- If you have additional family members who also wish to be members you might choose a different tier for them similar to our previous family based pricing model.

Members are welcome in ANY class (with a few exceptions below) as long as they are registered.

Redmond Parks & Recreation, 6Cricket or participation through any other 3rd party who are our partners, Summer Camps and the Archery programs are exceptions because they have limited space and supplies. These programs operate the way they do today and will not be considered donations.
